ORIGINAL 60S DASH-TIMER

The shared motorsport heritage between TAG Heuer and Porsche has deep roots, and in Heuer's case dates back over a century to early innovations in timekeeping for automobiles. As far back as 1911,

Heuer created the "Time of Trip," the first dashboard-mounted chronograph, evolving into the Autavia dashboard timer by 1933.

These devices became critical tools in prestigious racing events like the Monte Carlo Rally, and their precision made them indispensable in amateur and professional motorsport events alike.

KEY FEATURES

DESIGN

The design of the TAG Heuer Carrera Chronosprint x Porsche Rallye is drawing inspiration from the Heuer dashboard timer present in the Porsche 911 "147" in 1965 and echoing elements of early Porsche dashboards. The black dial, a nod to the Heuer Master Time / Monte Carlo stopwatches from 1965. Beige markings reference the original car's steering wheel.

DIAL

The dial's finish evokes the shimmering effect of its bodywork, adding a refined touch. The red lines on the right side of the flange are a graphical representation of speed, paying homage to the 0 to 100 km/h sprint achieved by the 1965 Porsche 911 "147" during the Monte Carlo Rally, calculated acceleration of 8.4 seconds. The azuré subdials, with contrasting silver rings, add visual depth.

MOVEMENT

The watch is powered by the in-house TH20-08 Chronosprint movement, a chronograph that offers an impressive 80-hour power reserve. The chronograph module of the TH20-08 is unique to the Porsche partnership, with its two snail-shaped wheels resulting in the central seconds hand completing the first 15 seconds of every stopped minute at an accelerated pace, before slowing to complete the loop of the minute perfectly.

BRACELET

The TAG Heuer Carrera Chronosprint x Porsche Rallye has two version. The steel version comes with a classic H-shaped bracelet and an additional black perforated leather strap with beige stitching.

The gold version takes luxury to another level, made from 18K 3N solid yellow gold and paired with a black perforated leather strap with beige stitching and an additional light brown perforated calfskin strap, allowing for personalization.

CASEBACK

The TAG Heuer Carrera double glassbox construction on both the front and back of the timepiece, allows for an uninterrupted view of the movement along with improving its ergonomic profile, ensuring comfort and seamless wearability. The front sapphire dome elegantly frames the dial, while the caseback reveals the Porsche-inspired rotor.
